PREAMBLE

The Church of Saint Saviour, Southwark, originally the Collegiate Church of the Priory of Saint Mary Overie, thereafter served as the church of a parish established, by a Statute of Henry VIII in the year 1541, out of two previously existing parishes. The property of the Wardens of those two parishes was vested in a body of six Wardens, who were to be elected by the parishioners of the new parish.

The rectory, church, burying-ground and certain other property in the parish were granted by James I in 1611 to certain persons, and by those persons conveyed in 1614 to a body of Trustees on trust for the employment of two preaching Chaplains and other purposes. The Saint Saviour’s Southwark, Chaplaincy Act 1868, reduced the number of these Chaplains to one, who was required to maintain a curate.

The Saint Saviour’s, Southwark (Church Rate Abolition) Act 1883, vested the right of perpetual presentation to the office of Chaplain in the Bishop of the diocese in which the parish church was or might be situated and enacted that the holder of the said office should be styled Rector. It confirmed the Wardens in the capacity as a body corporate and in their rights, but regulated the method of electing the Wardens, including the Warden of the Great Account, and made provision for the election of a further Warden, to be called the Rector’s Warden, and his inclusion in the body corporate. It added the Rector to the then existing Trustees, and made new provisions for election of the elected Trustees; and it vested in the Trustees (commonly called “the Rectory Trustees”), in addition to the property of which at that time they stood possessed, the sum of seven thousand pounds paid by the Bishop of Rochester for the right of presentation to the office of Chaplain (thenceforward styled Rector) and certain other property detailed in the First Schedule to the Act; but it provided that, with one exception, the income derived from these sources and from any other property which from time to time might be vested in the said Trustees should be paid over to the Wardens and by them expended upon the stipends of the Rector, the Schoolmaster and the Usher of the Grammar School of Saint Saviour in Southwark, and towards defraying the expenses of the repair and maintenance of the Church and other expenses in connection therewith as the Wardens should think proper.

These arrangements were, in part, materially changed by the Borough of Southwark (St Saviour) Scheme 1901, made in pursuance of the London Government Act, 1899. This Scheme provided (inter alia) for two Churchwardens, one of whom was to be the Rector’s Warden, to whom was transferred any power, duty, property or liability of the Court of Wardens connected with the affairs of the Church; and it made the Rectory Trustees not merely trustees but also the administrators (but subject to the conditions contained in the Act of 1883 in respect of the objects to which it was applicable) of the income of the property vested in them. In other respects the rights of the Court of Wardens were fully maintained. The election of five members of the Court of Wardens (other than the Rector’s Warden) was thenceforward to be entrusted to the Council of the Metropolitan Borough of Southwark, and that of the Rectory Trustees to the inhabitants of the ecclesiastical district for the time being attached to the Church of Saint Saviour.

Meanwhile changes had taken place within the Church itself. In 1896 the Vestry resolved that the Lady Chapel sufficiently provided for the needs of the parish and approved a proposal to apply for a faculty for fitting up that Chapel as a parish church and to use the remainder of the Church as a collegiate church, subject to the Warden of the Great Account and the Rector’s Warden being members of the Chapter. In pursuance of this resolution, the Bishop of Rochester, in 1897, entered into an agreement under seal with the Rector whereby the Lady Chapel was thenceforth to be deemed the parish church and the Rector renounced all his rights to the use of the remainder of the Church, save in respect of solemnisations of baptism and marriage, the receipt of fees therefor, the joint use of the vestry and the bells, and access to the Parish Church. In the same year a faculty was given for effecting the necessary alterations, and the Bishop promulgated Statutes for the Collegiate Church. The Saint Thomas Southwark and Saint Saviour Southwark Act 1898, which united the two parishes, designates the Church of Saint Saviour as a Collegiate Church.

The bishopric of Southwark was founded by an Order in Council made on the 20th day of March, 1905, in pursuance of the Bishoprics of Southwark and Birmingham Act 1904, the Second Schedule to which declared the Church of Saint Saviour, Southwark, to be the Cathedral Church of the diocese of Southwark.

By an Order in Council made on the 29th day of April, 1915, the benefices of Saint Saviour and of Saint Peter, in Southwark, were united.

In 1922 the Bishop of Southwark promulgated new Statutes in amendment of those in 1897. These bodies of Statutes, though not binding in law, were generally followed. In accordance with these Statutes, the Bishop was Dean and a Bishop Suffragan Sub-Dean, and the number of Canons was limited to six, with Dignities (apart from that of Sub-Dean) of Precentor, Chancellor and Missioner. The Chapter was constituted so as to include the Dean, the Sub-Dean, the Canons, the Warden of the Great Account, the Rector’s Warden, the Treasurer and the Assistant Treasurer. While the clerical members of this Chapter controlled all matters relating to the ministering of the Word and Sacraments and the conduct of Divine Worship, the Chapter as a whole had, among other powers, that of appointing, dismissing, and regulating the duties of, all persons (save the Canons and others appointed by the Bishop) employed in the Cathedral Church and of fixing and altering their remuneration.

A new Constitution and Statutes were framed by the Cathedral Commissioners for England appointed under the Cathedrals Measure 1931 to bring the governance of the Cathedral Church into accord with the Cathedrals Measures 1931 and 1934. This Constitution and Statutes were set out in the First Schedule to the Southwark Cathedral Measure 1937.

The further Constitution and Statutes were framed by the Cathedrals Commission appointed under section 1 of the Cathedrals Measure 1963 in substitution for the aforementioned Constitution and Statutes, bringing the governance of the Cathedral Church into accord with the provisions of the said Measure of 1963. The whole of the Cathedral Church was both the Cathedral Church of the Diocese of Southwark and the Parish Church of Saint Saviour, Southwark.

At the request of the Deans and Provosts of English Cathedrals, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York invited a commission chaired by Lady Howe of Aberavon to examine all aspects of cathedral management, administration and life, and to make recommendations for the future governance of cathedrals. This Commission published its report, "Heritage and Renewal" in 1994. The report’s recommendations were widely welcomed and resulted in General Synod and Parliament initiating a Measure for their general implementation.

A Transitional Council was established at every cathedral to draw up a new Constitution and Statutes in accordance with the Cathedrals Measure 1999. These became effective on Easter Day 2000 (the feast day of St. George and the anniversary of the birth and death of William Shakespeare) when the Transitional Council ceased to exist.
In 2008, at a joint meeting of the Chapter and the Cathedral Council, revisions to the Constitution and Statutes were discussed. Amendments concerning the membership of the Cathedral Council and Finance Committee were proposed along with the formation of a Nominations Committee and changes to the Order of Precedence. These amendments were formally approved by the Cathedral Council at their meeting in April 2009 following the period of statutory public consultation. The Constitution and Statutes were revised accordingly.

A further review was undertaken in 2012/13. A number of changes were approved by the Cathedral Council at their meeting in 2013 following the requisite consultation. These included new provisions for the appointment of Ecumenical Canons, alterations to reflect the introduction of the Ecclesiastical Offices (Terms of Service) Measure 2009 and Common Tenure, the redesignation of the Administrator as the Comptroller, the designation of the Succentor as a Minor Canon, the designation of Cathedral Chaplains as Honorary Minor Canons, together with various consequential and other amendments.

The revised Constitution and Statutes now follow.
